Kiawah Reads is delighted to feature the very popular and talented author, Karen White, who will be discussing her most recent novels “On Folly Beach,” which was published in May and remained on the New York Times bestseller list for five weeks, and “Falling Home,” which will be published in early November.

Karen currently writes what she refers to as “grit lit”—Southern women’s fiction. “On Folly Beach,” a story of two women whose lives intersect by the bookstore they each owned 60 years apart, weaving some little-known history about this South Carolina beach town with a thoughtful plot involving living, loving, deceit, sorrow and survival. Karen’s characters are rich and captivating, and this is a perfectly crafted, heart-warming story.

In “Falling Home,” Karen writes about Cassie Madison, estranged from her sister, who returns home from her sophisticated Upper East Side life to be with her dying father, intending to leave the sleepy Georgia town and all her sad memories immediately after his funeral. Unexpectedly, she inherits the family home. Now she must stay until it sells... which happens to be just long enough for her to learn how the power of family, memories and a former love can lead to the most amazing discoveries.

Join us to meet this lovely lady and hear about her adventures in writing, followed by a book sale and signing. Light refreshments will be served.
